Dear Parent/Guardian,

Good Afternoon,

Our first full week of remote learning is off to a start. It appears that we are reaching students remotely. Meals are getting to families and technology is working the way it should. I have had the opportunity to reach out to families to ask how remote learning works for your child. So far, the feedback has been positive, with some ideas about how to make it work better. I will be taking this feedback to the Paul School administration and the teachers. Lately I have been repeating myself, as I reiterate that what we are doing, will look different day to day, that is until we have truly developed our remote learning into a product that we think meets the needs of our students throughout the day, across the grade levels and all of our content areas. My goal is to provide you and your child with a learning opportunity that prepares them for the next grade.

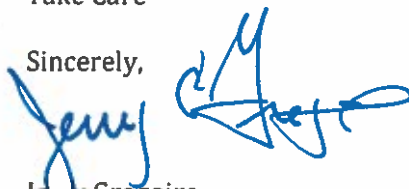

It seems there was a bit of confusion regarding meals. Last Friday, I sent out a Facebook post stating we had some extra meals that would go to waste if they were not taken. We had the meals available from 11 a.m. to 12 p.m. that day. That is not an everyday occurrence. I will post on Facebook if meals are available at times other than the regular 7 a.m. to 8 a.m. timeframe. If the regularly scheduled time does not work for you due to work or other scheduling conflicts, please let us know so that we can do everything possible to get meals to your child.

If you are on Facebook, check out Mrs. Spector's reading of "SkippyJon Jones" by author Judith Byron Schachner <https://www.facebook.com/PaulElementarySchool/videos/514593122554770/>.

I will continue to check in with you through email and will be reaching out to parents on the phone daily. The best way for us to know what is working and what is not working. We will continue to change as we determine what is needed. Again, please let us know if there is something that we may be able to do to assist you.

Take Care

Sincerely,

Jerry Gregoire
